

Highest Awards

"The five requirements for winning the Golden Eaglet Award are character, health, handicraft, happiness and service, and that others will expect to find in our Golden Eaglet a perfect specimen of girlhood: mentally, morally, and physically." - Juliette Gordon Low, the American Girl, November 1923.

Today, our Highest Awards are called Bronze, Silver, and Gold. They give Girl Scouts the framework to make lasting change in their community. Girl Scouting's Highest Awards have changed over the years. Explore the timeline below and the list of our Legacy Councils' very first recipients.

- 1913-1916: Silver Fish
- 1916-1918: Golden Eagle of Merit
- 1918-1938: Golden Eaglet Tenderfoot
- 1938-1940: Second Class and First Class (used as rankings based on time in Girl Scouts and badges earned)
- 1940-1963: Curved Bar Award replaced First Class rank
- 1963-1980: First Class Award became the highest award
- 1980-Present: Bronze Award for Juniors, Silver Award for Cadettes, and Gold Award for Seniors and Ambassadors

"Lines to a Golden Eaglet"

I would wish you the range of the eaglet's eye
The strength of his wings
that your spirit may fly Over all of life's turmoil - your purpose held high.

I would wish you the courage to walk unafraid Wearing proudly the symbol of your accolade.

Birdsall Otis Edey

Those who have earned the Golden Eaglet of Merit, the Golden Eaglet, the Curved Bar, the First Class pin or the Girl Scout Gold Award all reflect this image that the founder of the Girl Scout Movement envisioned as girls deserving of top honors. Despite name changes and requirement revisions of Girl Scouting's highest recognitions, recipients of these awards have always epitomized the dedication, commitment, and perseverance gained through Girl Scouting.

The Girl Scout Gold Award, the most prestigious award in Girl Scouting, recognizes the leadership, effort, and impact Senior and Ambassador Girl Scouts have had on their communities. Only about five percent of eligible girls take the rigorous path toward earning this higher award, but those who complete the journey change the lives of others and their own in amazing and significant ways.

The Golden Eagle of Merit was first noted in the 1916 Handbook and modeled after the British Silver Fish. The requirements were earning 14 proficiency badges chosen from a list of 17 specified badges. The Golden Eagle of Merit was redesigned in 1919 to the Golden Eaglet. From 1918 to 1939, only 10,658 Golden Eaglets were awarded. In 1920, new requirements were made to earn the Golden Eaglet with revisions made once again in 1928. It was believed that even though there were fewer requirements needed to obtain the rank, the standards for them should be even higher with an emphasis on practical application and good turn. To first earn the Golden Eaglet, a Girl Scout had to earn her rank of Tenderfoot, Second Class Scout, and First Class Scout. The rank of Tenderfoot was discontinued in 1963 but the pin remained and became known as the Girl Scout Membership Pin until the design change in 1980. The Curved Bar was introduced in 1940 for Intermediate Girl Scouts who had completed the rank of First Class Scout. The Curved Bar was a way to help Intermediate Girl Scouts prepare in advance for some of the things they would do as Senior Girl Scouts. Four proficiency badges had to be earned in addition to the First Class Scout from a list of predetermined badges. At first, it was a gold arc patch, later replaced by the Curved Bar Pin in 1947. The Curved Bar was discontinued in 1963 with the introduction of the 4 age-level program when the requirements for First Class Scout were considered challenging enough to render the Curved Bar unnecessary. The Girl Scout Gold Award was introduced in 1980 and became the first highest award in Girl Scouts. This award replaced the previous award of First Class Scout. This new recognition helped girls focus on four areas: skill development, leadership, service, and career exploration. We now have Gold, Silver, and Bronze Awards based on program age levels.
